In his relatively short career, Erik Madigan Heck (b. 1983, USA) has developed a very personal way of looking at fashion. He is well known for his meticulously constructed images and use of bright colours, which stems from a life-long love affair with painting and blurs the line between the clothes and the background. His second solo exhibition at Zurich's Christophe Guye Galerie depicts his series The Garden, which moves through a singular world – a fairy tale in which figures and settings become tableaux for rich tonal arrangements. Images are arranged and oversaturated with colour in such a way as to create surreal, painterly compositions in which the familiar and the fantastic merge.
